Beechcraft Berlin aviation GmbH continues on its expansionary course

Edgar Boehlke has been a member of management of Beechcraft Berlin aviation GmbH, based at Airport Berlin Schönefeld, since 1 October 2010, taking the place of Jan Zesewitz.

Together with the CEO Gregor Bremer, Edgar Boehlke will be working on the further development of the company.

In particular he will be pushing forward the business fields of mission equipment and the extension of maintenance activities in Europe. He will also be supporting aircraft sales. Edgar Boehlke left AC&S GmbH in Munich-Brunnthal after almost 8 years as head of the engineering business unit and has now moved to Berlin.

Beechcraft Berlin aviation GmbH was established in 1991 at the historical Berlin Tempelhof airport. Since then Beechcraft Berlin has acted as a representative for Hawker Beechcraft Company, Wichita, Kansas, USA, in Berlin and the former East German states. In January 1993 the company received certification as an approved aircraft maintenance organisation. Beechcraft Berlin is today an EASA Part-145 maintenance operation and since November 2006 is also approved as EASA Part 21 Design Organisation and FAA Repair Station. In December 2008, Beechcraft Berlin aviation GmbH was approved as a Continuing Airworthiness Management Organisation (CAMO+) in accordance with Part M, Subpart G with the privilege according to Subpart I. Since the start of 2010, Beechcraft Berlin aviation GmbH has also been approved for the maintenance of the Hawker 700/800/900 series and is therefore a fully authorised Service Center for the Hawker Beechcraft Corporation.

In addition to the service and maintenance work on aircraft, Beechcraft Berlin aviation GmbH also conducts major modifications for "mission aircraft" and has already made a name for itself at an international level as a specialist for weather and observation platforms. Mission aircraft from all over the world are equipped at Beechcraft Berlin.
